

1.13. True Love

True love is not human love, it is God's love.

The love you share in the spiritual world is not worldly human love, but true love.

Without being filled with the Holy Spirit, we cannot give true love.

Human love is always conditional. We do not feel the same love for a person we like and for a person who hurts and attacks us.

The love of God is like the sun. It shines unconditionally on everything. It is directed at the worst person just as much as the best and most loving saint.

When you look at the sun, know that it symbolizes the life elements of the entire universe, and learn the love of God from it.

Divine Love - Beyond Human Emotion

On the mystical path, we experience God's love directly within us – a love that does not originate from ourselves but from God.

We are filled with the love of the Holy Spirit.

This love has a different quality than human love, which arises from our own emotions.

It radiates for every person, for every being and all creatures.

We should be aware that religions were founded by people who had access to this divine love. It was not their own, human love, but the love of God that worked through them.

It is possible to preach from the understanding of the truth about God's love. Yet through study and intellect alone, we still do not find access to divine love.

For that, it takes a religious practice that leads us through an inner transformation.
